

FROM THE WINGS

THE OFFICIAL PUBLICATION OF SILVER WINGS INTERNATIONAL, INC.

Fall 2023

From Our President

Silver Wings International held their first convention for just two days on September 29 and 30, 1989 in Scottsdale, Arizona. The first location was the Days Inn, a motel located outside the parking lot of the Goldwater's department store. The room rate was a whopping $35. The main attraction was the Fashion Square shopping mall. We've come a long way!

I have completed two terms as President of Silver Wings. As the New York convention attendees learned, I am stepping down and Brenda Wyatt will assume the position of President of Silver Wings in 2024. I took office in January of 2020, the beginning of the Covid year. It was quite a learning curve, dealing with issues that no one had yet experienced. People stayed home and learned to telecommute. Our house had a drive-by Mother's Day, the kids left flowers on the porch, but no hugs. Previously, the board met twice a year in person. Thanks to Covid, we started having board meetings once a month by Zooming. That was a gift. Issues got communicated and settled quickly. We got to know each other on a personal level not possible before. Zooming has been a wonderful tool. With an experienced board in place, our organization continued to thrive.

I am thrilled that Brenda will be your next President. As the founding Vice President, Brenda has been with Silver Wings since 1988. It is fitting that after 35 years she takes the reins once more to guide our membership that has grown to 1000 plus. With Brenda at the helm, the leadership role comes full circle. She will do a great job!

On a personal note, I will miss being in the mix very much. Being President has forced me to keep up with technology, learn more about negotiating contracts and experience dealing with diverse chapter issues. Most especially, I have made many new friends and reconnected with old friends. We have a unique and special organization in Silver Wings International. I encourage you to continue to stay involved and support this amazing fellowship of TWA flight attendants in any way you can. Thank you as a group for being who you are, and thank you for the love and support you have given to me these past four years.

An Epilogue

TWAS 2006 - Just the other day
17 years later - Here's what I have to say
It's now 2023 - Take a glance in the mirror - What do you see?
A living reflection of God's artistry.
Hip replacement, shoulders, knees?
Some with disease, and please ladies, try not to sneeze.
50 shades of gray (hair).
Brown spot sprinkles. And of course more new wrinkles.
Stitches of love, joy, sorrow, and guilt.
Entwined together portray character built.
Life's journey has been cast.
Our years at TWA - long passed.
We stayed our course, going the distance.
Acquired only by determined persistence.
More time now for hobbies, travel, and reading.
Food for the soul, just what we are needing.
Take a walk in the sand, enjoy the warm sun.
The next chapter in your life has now begun.
Our time with TWA, a story book collection.
No erasing, no corrections.
Membership with no date of expiration.
Always 5 o'clock somewhere, time for libation.
Shakespeare (I know you have read) in Hamlet,
Here's what he said, "We know what we are, but we know not what we can be."
Take a glimpse inside, and you will see.
Keep growing, don't stay the same size.
Glance again in the mirror, the answer is in your eyes.
Keep an attitude with gratitude, our time here but a brief interlude.
Cherished friends have taken a flight west, their souls now peacefully rest.
Hold the memories close to your heart, eternity is forever, this is just the start.
Carpe Diem - Carole

This is the completion, the 4th and final, of the series of poems that Carole Larkins has written and that were printed in the 2001, 2003, 2006 issues "From The Wings."

Interview with Gail Bickett

By Kaye Juhl

At 25 years old, Gail Barthwick found herself back in New Jersey living with her dysfunctional mother and wondering what to do with her life. It was 1965, and she had left a modeling career in Los Angeles at the same time she left her husband. As with many of us, she noticed an ad in the local paper looking for prospective TWA "hostesses." The cut off age limit was 26 years old so she had to apply immediately. With the required copy of divorce papers in her hand, she went to her first interview in New York. This interview followed with another in LaGuardia. Here she met a tall lean applicant named Karen Thoma. Karen was in a restroom trying to calm her nerves and dry her sweat stained clothing. Only 10 young women would be chosen out of every 40 who applied. Those 10 were given tickets to fly to Kansas City. Karen turned out to be her roommate in training...and her lifelong best friend. For the first time in years, Gail's hair was no longer blonde as it had been as a hair model but had immediately been dyed a medium brown as required for her new job. The first months took them from New York to Indianapolis many times. Not having the required language for International trips, domestic flying was the only choice. Years of immersion heaters with soup and crackers were ahead.

They had a great time as roommates. Gail laughs when remembering Karen meeting her date, football star Frank Gifford. Frank showed up for their date at the shared apartment and was introduced to an unsuspecting Karen. She was watching TV with her beehive hairdo well sprayed and wrapped in toilet paper! On days off, they could usually be found with a drink in one hand and a cigarette in the other. Gail had always wanted to be a party girl in those early years. The two went separate ways with Karen becoming a Service Manager and Gail marrying Doug, a famous voice-over actor. Doug spoke fluent German and would help her learn the language as they took car rides. While this marriage did not last, learning the German language was a success, and she was finally able to fly International routes.

International travels often took her to Paris. She loved meeting the new man in her life, TWA pilot Joe Bickett, for dinner there. Joe soon became her third husband. Joe and Gail would fly to Florida to stay in a small condo they owned. They would visit Gail's sister then drive south to visit Karen two hours away. Karen was divorced from TWA pilot Daryl Roark and had met a very compatible boat captain who she would be with the rest of her life. Joe and Gail had a home on a remote hillside in Pope Valley, California where they lived until Gail sold the property after Joe's death. Joe had suggested that Gail move to Florida when he died and be closer to Karen, but Gail had always loved California so she stayed. At our first Silver Wings convention at the New York TWA Hotel in 2019, Gail and Karen had a great time in spite of Karen being very weak due to various cancer drugs. Lung cancer took her life in October 2021.

Gail and I talked about the importance of giving meaningful things away while you are alive. Jewelry, a book, a memento of any size means so much to people you leave behind. Gail does not have Karen's cartouche to wear, but she does have 55 years of memories with her best friend.

Gail had a serious fall recently resulting in 4 trips for emergency treatments. Not only a spiral fracture of her elbow but a disintegrating disk and exposed nerve in her back as well as a head injury causing some cognitive problems. She told me: "Never get old!" I told her that the advice has come too late!

Gail Bickett still lives in the Pope Valley area. She finds peace and relaxation on the deck with her partner Robert or in the garden with their dogs and chickens. ■
